Dreyfus' Great Counsel Again the Central Figure.

An Uneventful Day In the Trial at Rennes-M. Jaures, the Socialist Leader, Thinks Dreyfus

Will Be Acquitted.

RENNES, Aug. 24.-The session of the court was comparatively uneventful yes-terday. The depositions were not pro-ductive of any really thrilling incidents. The systematic production of the film-siest trash, which the prosecution deems profitable to inflict on the indges and which the latter accept as evidence, was proceeded with. Much of the ridiculous testimony of the morning was devoted to an attempt to blast Dreyfus' private character, though, when Maitres Labori and Demange had finished with the witnesses, their bubbles of tittle tattle were badly pricked. Much of the time was occupied in read-which many of the audience left the M. Labori again distinguished himself in laying bare the weak points of the evidence. He was less fiere, however, all purchases will be made in immense enough to arouse the latent hostility of the judges, which showed itself in various little ways. M. Labori is no favorite either with Major Carrière, the government's commissary and the latter wath. ment's commissary, and the latter makes no serious effort to conceal his feelings toward the lawyer.

M. Labori bore little traces of the effects of the outrage upon him. He rose, sat down and moved his body and limbs apparently without much difficulty. as though suffering pain. His wife fol-lowed his every movement through a gold Mme. Rejane, the actress, was again an interested spectator in court, especially when M. Labori was on his feet and his voice was vibrating through the hall. Her eyes watched his mobile features, across which flitted everchanging expressions of indignation, anger or satisfaction, with the keen interest which spectators in a theater follow her own acting. During some of the depositions M. Labori appeared very nervous. He was unable to remain still an instant, twitching his fingers and shaking the papers in his hand. Counsel was almost too impatient to walt till the witnesses concluded their testimony. The only dangerous opponent of Drey fus was General Gonse, who mounted! the stage with a quick step and ap-parently light heart. But he left it bad-

"driveling" against him. But when his cross examination was finished be returned to his sent with his tail between into a corner on the attempts of the general stuff to shield Esterhazy and had shown that the general stuff, for which trouse was responsible, had en-gineered Esterhuzy's escape from the hands of justice. The confident tones if the general has by then dwindled into the proverbial still, small voice, and his depart bearing had changed into the abashed air of a schoolboy caught telling a lie.

The day proved certainly a poor one for the general staff. Two good samples of the men put up to sully Dreytus' private character were the third and fourth First Major du Chatelet repeated an slieged conversation of Dreyfus regarding a lady at whose house Drevius is alleged to have gambled and lost mon 'hatelet's memory fuiled him entirely. especially when asked the name of the adv, the street she resided in and the sum Dreyfus lost.

Next. M. Dubreuil showed equally astounding forgetfulness on essential points of his evidence concerning Dreyfus' acquantance with a foreign attache, and when M. Demange capped his success-ful examination of these points by prom-ing to show that M. Dubreml's record witness left the stand badly discredited. Maitre Labori has decided to prosecute La Croix, one of the leading Clerical organs, and Le Libre l'arole, together l with M. Drumont, proprietor and di-rector of the latter paper, personally, for most dangerous crossings of its southdeclaring the recent murderous attack up-

The gang of conspirators, with General him to make and if the technical exammann proves favorable to the prisoner In that case Roget and his following could, in order to prevent the acquittal of Dreyfus, fall back upon a new system, in which the authorship of the bordereau friend of the Dreyfus family, would be trumped up. Drevfus would be charged with having imprudently confided secret information to W., who repeated it to Esterhazy, who, in his turn, sold it to a oreign power. Under this scheme Dreyfus' guilt would be simply that of espionage, not high treason. He would be found guilty, but sentenced only to a term of imprison-ment of from one to five years and at once released as having served that term on the He du Diable.

And thus the honor of the army would be satisfied and the conscience of the judges would be easy.
